Greetings future UW-Stout students,

My name is Troy Nelson, and I am the current student body president for UW-Stout. This university provides students with endless opportunities to grow both academically and as a person. Outside the classroom, Stout provides its students with a large selection of organizations to become a part of. Whether your interests include sports, the outdoors, or Greek life, Stout has something for you. If you have any questions about student life on campus or anything at all pertaining to Stout, please feel free to email me: sbapresident@uwstout.edu

Sincerely,

Troy Nelson
Student Body President

WELCOME!
INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION
If you have any questions or concerns, the faculty and staff at Stout will take some time to work through them with you. They are here to help you learn.

HANDS ON LEARNING
Stout offers many lab facilities for students, allowing you to acquire the hands on skills that you'll need in the workplace.

FRIENDLY ATMOSPHERE
There are many great ways to meet a wide variety of people at Stout. Living in a residence hall, getting an on campus job, or joining one of the many student organizations are just a few ways. Stout is a great place to get involved.

WISCONSIN’S POLYTECHNIC UNIVERSITY
UW-Stout is a four-year, nationally recognized university with an applied learning approach and career-focused learning undergraduate and graduate degrees in the arts, education, engineering, natural and social sciences and technology.

HOW DOES UW-STOUT’S POLYTECHNIC DESIGNATION BENEFIT ME?

1. It guides UW-Stout when adding degree programs to the already wide array of degree options available, ultimately providing more options for you.

2. It elevates the already excellent reputation that UW-Stout has with business and industry, making your diploma more valuable to employers.

3. It provides more national recognition for UW-Stout which means more opportunities for research and partnerships with business and industry, resulting in additional hands on learning for you.

4. It builds on UW-Stout’s exceptional placement rate of 97% providing you with excellent co-op, internship and job opportunities.
OPTIONS
The residence halls accommodate many different types of people, from freshmen to upper-class and non-traditional students. We also offer double rooms, single rooms, triple rooms and four-person suites.

MAKING FRIENDS
Residence halls are communities where you can meet a variety of new and interesting people.

CONNECTIONS
Create a sense of belonging by meeting new people in the residence halls who share your interests. Not only that, but the residence halls are great places to find out how to get involved.

CONVENIENCE
Would you like to have wireless internet access, a cable tv connection, a microfridge, and a clean environment to live in? No problem! All are provided in the residence halls as a part of your housing costs. Dining plans are covered as well!

IT FEELS LIKE HOME
We provide the basics and you add the flair! Bring stuff with you to reflect your personality and build an environment which you call home.
SHOW INTEGRITY
Be truthful and honest with people. Stick to your morals and values. For example, don’t lie to people or cheat on tests and papers. Follow the rules and policies that have been established. They were made for a reason.

RESPECT YOURSELF
Think about your behavior before you do something. Ask, “Is this helping me succeed in college?” Can you say that you are proud of your actions? Challenge yourself to look at things from a new perspective. Instead of following a crowd, be an individual.

RESPECT OTHERS
Show concern for others. Treat people well, and be kind to them. Think about how your behaviors are affecting others, and act accordingly. Be a good citizen. Learn about those who are different from you, and appreciate them. Don’t judge people or discriminate against them. Act in a way that helps create a positive community.

RESPECT AUTHORITY
Treat faculty and staff (including student staff members) appropriately. Follow their advice and directives, because if they are telling you to do something, it may be in your best interest (even if you don’t think so at the time). Follow policies and procedures and you will find yourself getting through things much more easily.

RESPECT PROPERTY
We provide all kinds of stuff (furniture, athletic equipment, facilities, etc.) to make your Stout experience better. Take care of it; treat things with care. If it breaks or is damaged, tell someone and get it fixed or replaced.

We specifically want to mention our expectations regarding alcohol use. On some campuses, drinking is often part of the social life for students, but misuse of alcohol is a growing problem. If you read the previous expectations, you will realize that if you choose to drink alcohol, you will impact yourself and other people. Most of the time, this impact is negative. UW-Stout takes an aggressive approach to under-age drinking and alcohol abuse. There will be financial and educational consequences for students who violate alcohol policies. We want you to be aware of this before you come to school here. If you come to UW-Stout, we want you to have fun and enjoy yourself, but you need to do this in responsible ways.
UW-Stout is an inclusive campus. We want everyone to feel welcome and to feel like they are part of our community. We are committed to helping all students succeed and the best way to make that happen is to create an environment where everyone is respected and treated civilly. There are times when you may feel a bit challenged or uncomfortable as part of your growth, yet that is all part of the educational experience you will find here.

When you arrive on campus, you will encounter people from different races, religions, countries, ethnic groups, cultures, genders and gender identities, socioeconomic backgrounds, sexual orientations, and disability levels. All are welcome here.

We live in a diverse community and technology is compacting our world. Our future will provide unlimited opportunities for us to interact with many different types of people. Together, we must develop language, habits and practices that are inclusive and welcoming of others. Our goal at UW-Stout is to create a campus that values integrity, fairness, creativity, responsibility, strength, community, civility, action, cooperation, and respect.
EXPERIENCE

FIRST YEAR EXPERIENCE

The First Year Experience focuses on integrating your out-of-classroom experiences into your academic future. With activities from intramural teams to study groups, you can foster connections with classmates, advisors and faculty members who are right in the hall or just across the street! FYE students live in one of the South campus residence halls, along with other first year students who are new to the campus. The emphasis in the FYE halls is to help you adjust to campus life and be a successful student.

Living Learning Communities

UW-Stout offers freshman learning communities to help you connect with others with similar interests and succeed in college. The 2012-13 living learning communities are:

• Art & Design is for art majors who want to develop their skills and be inspired by fellow artists.
• Engineering is for Manufacturing Engineering or Plastics Engineering majors who want to develop skills and make connections with fellow engineers.
• Living Out Loud is for students who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, questioning, any other sexual orientation or gender identity/expression, and their friends and allies!
• Honors is an invited community that is focused on providing Honors Program students with an academic experience within a social atmosphere.
• Applied Science is for Applied Science majors to create connections within the Applied Science program, UW-Stout, City of Menomonie and each other.
• Stoutward Bound is for students who identify as African American, American Indian, Latino/Latina and/or Asian and would like support and encouragement needed for a successful transition to college.
• Aspire is an invited community focused on four different student achievement categories: career, service, leadership, and success.
• World Travelers is for students interested in learning about and experiencing other cultures, as well as connecting with others and sharing their experiences.

Note: the 2013-14 living learning communities may be different.

NEXT EXPERIENCE

In your second and subsequent years, you’ll move to one of our Next Experience Halls, many of which are located on the North campus. Events, activities, and opportunities that enrich your college experience continue, and you will build upon your growing success that started in an FYE hall. Students residing in The Next Experience live with other upperclass students and will benefit from programs geared toward helping them take the next steps in their professional career. One of the buildings, Red Cedar Hall, is a junior/senior hall that provides suite-style living. Suites consist of 4 single bedrooms, a living area, a kitchenette, and a bathroom in every suite. In addition, each floor has a laundry room, TV area, full kitchen, and recycling/composting center. Red Cedar is air conditioned and has two elevators.
The residence halls are a great environment for flourishing minds to develop! Within the halls, many locations exist where you will find a perfect study nook. Besides your own room, a lounge is located on each floor. The basements have rooms for solo studying or group studying. In the late evening, quiet hours encourage a study-friendly environment.

Many resources are also available to assist you academically when living in the residence halls. Your classmates are your neighbors. Stop by a friend’s room for assistance with a difficult subject or have a paper proofread. Every First Year Experience residence hall has an Academic Resource Coordinator also known as an ARC. An ARC is a student employee who works to achieve an academically focused environment within the halls. ARCs are not only a great academic role model, but a great resource. Talk to your ARC for note taking and study tips, test taking methods, time management pointers, setting academic goals and much more!

“Civic Engagement is a way for UW-Stout students to: Strengthen the Community; Become Better Educated and Create a Better Country.”

Community Outreach and Civic Engagement Programs include: working with our VISTA Volunteers on projects such as Food Security and the Menomonie Community Garden or the Bridging the Digital Divide. Stout students make a difference every day by participating in volunteer organizations, such as Relay for Life, Backpacks for Veterans, Special Olympics, Dig for the Cure, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Ronald McDonald House and Colleges Against Cancer.

ORGANIZATIONS

Getting involved on campus is one of the most rewarding experiences you'll have throughout your college career. It allows you to engage in campus activities, learn new skills and ideas and contribute to our local, national and global community in which we live every day. Simply said, getting involved will transform your college experience from ordinary to extraordinary.

With more than 145 student organizations to choose from, there is truly something for everyone! And if not, students are more than welcome to start up a new organization!

ACADEMIC & PROFESSIONAL
The majority of all academic programs have a related student organization. These are a great way to connect with faculty members, fellow classmates and enhance your out-of-classroom experience.
