Six enter Hall of Fame

The 1980s were well represented among 1998 inductees for the UW-Stout Athletic Hall of Fame. Renee Kasten leads the list of inductees as the first exclusively women’s basketball player to make it into the Hall, and was voted to the Hall in her first year of eligibility. Kerry Hafner was perhaps the best tight end to ever play football for the Blue Devils, while Web Peterson was one of the top cross country and track performers in the conference in the mid-80s. Greg Ebsen was a point guard for the Blue Devils in the late 1960s, playing for the last Stout basketball team to advance to the national tournament. Two coaches were also named to the Hall. George Miller was a pioneer football coach for Stout in the 1920s and Tom Slupe, who was named to the Hall in the honorary category, served as the Stout hockey coach from 1972–83.

Renee Kasten-Hodell
Renee Kasten’s name is not difficult to find in the Stout record books. Just look under rebounding. She owns the section.

Playing from 1984–88, Kasten sits 1-2-3 on the single season rebounding leader list, pulling down a school record 314 boards in 1986–87, her junior year. As a freshman, she recorded 297 and as a sophomore, 280. Not surprisingly, her 1048 career rebounds is a school record as her 12.5 rebounds per game.

On a national scale, Kasten ranked in the top 15 all four years, despite being injured for much of her senior year. As a freshman, when she was named to the All-WWIAC first team, Kasten ranked third nationally, 12th as a sophomore and fourth as a junior.

Kasten made a splash her freshman year, being named as an NCAA Division III All-American Freshman and a First Team All-america. All four years, Kasten was named at some level of all-conference, including first team as a freshman and junior.

Kasten could also score. She was the first Stout women’s player to reach 1000 points, tallying 1014, currently ranking fourth. Kasten served as an assistant coach for one year at Stout before graduating in 1989 with a business administration degree.

A native of Schofield, Kasten has returned to the Wausau area where she is currently employed as a buyer for East Bay Inc. She is also an assistant varsity basketball coach at DC Everest, her alma mater, where the Evergreens have won two conference titles during her two years.

Kasten and her husband, Mike Hodell, reside in Schofield and have a daughter, Taylor.

Kerry Hafner
Kerry Hafner set no records while he played tight end for the Blue Devils football team from 1976–79, and 1981–82, but he was an important part of Stout’s high powered running game.

Known primarily as a bruising blocker, Hafner helped create interference for running backs Steve Burr and Bob Johnson, both Hall of Fame members, who set school rushing records. Hafner was an honorable mention all conference pick in 1979, then was a first team choice in 1981 and was a first team all-district selection in 1982. Hafner is currently ranked 13th on the all-time receiving list with 1006 yards.

Hafner signed as a free agent with the Green Bay Packers in 1982, lasting until the second-to-last cut. To prepare for his stint with the Packers, Hafner went out for track for the first time, participating in the hammer throw where he placed third at the 1982 conference meet.

Greg Ebsen
While not a prolific scorer — he averaged 12.1 points through his four-year career — Greg Ebsen became more known for feeding some of the all-time Blue Devil basketball greats. During Stout’s 1969 national tournament run through the regional分区 season, Ebsen set a school record in assists, dishing off 119 to the likes of Mel Coleman and Cal Glover, then broke the record the next year with 126.

Ebsen will be remembered by the way he could run the floor and the offense, then hit someone inside with the lookaway pass.

But Ebsen was capable of scoring, said his coach Darwin Mintz. “When he scored, he scored high,” Mintz said. Ebsen finished up his career with 854 points and is currently ranked 28th on the all-time scoring list. He finished with 310 career assists. Ebsen was steady from the line, shooting a career 81 percent.

Ebsen’s best individual year came in 1970 when he averaged 16.5 points and was named to the all-WWIC team.

Ebsen is originally from Wisconsin Rapids and led Lincoln High School to a second place finish in the 1966 state basketball championships.

But Miller’s legacy may very well be what he contributed to the practice fields. In a school well known for its industrial arts education, Miller constructed a foreunner to the blocking sled, something he referred to as a charging machine.

According to a 1918 Stoutonia, the “machine is constructed of huge timbers and the timbers that lie upon the ground are studded with spikes. The murderous machine is of tremendous weight and the brute (Miller) assumes a commanding position on his fiendish work and forces the 18 victims he holds in his power to ride him around his domain.”

Miller, a 1909 Menomonie High School graduate, was also a pioneer in the coaching field, holding summer coaching seminars on the Stout campus. He also wrote numerous books on certain phases of physical education.

But perhaps Miller’s biggest contribution to the world of sports was when he developed a type of needle used to inflate bladders of footballs and basketballs.

As the Stout football coach, Miller posted a 20-27-6 record, going undefeated in 1921 with a 5-0-2 record and outscoring opponents by an average score of 18-4. He posted a basketball record of 28-48.

Miller obtained the admiration of the student body. Three years after he left Stout, The Stoutonia was still publishing news stories about Miller and his successes.

Tom Slupe
Tom Slupe was instrumental in shaping the Stout ice hockey program, participating almost from its beginnings as the team goalie, then moving into the role of head coach beginning in 1972. Slupe coached the Blue Devils for 11 seasons, enjoying the heyday of Stout hockey in the mid-1970s when the team posted their only above .500 record, going 13-7-1 in 1974–75 and 14-10 in 1975–76. Slupe was named the Wisconsin Vocational Education Teacher of the Year in 1989 and served as the Wisconsin Technology Education Association (WTEA) secretary-treasurer. Menomonie’s cooperative education program was recognized by the WTEA as the program of the year in 1992.

Slupe presently resides in Menomonie with his wife, Jane. The couple have two children, Greg and Erin.

Spain gets Distinguished Service Award

Until her retirement, Judy Spain was a fixture at UW-Stout athletic events — not only at the games but behind the scenes. Because of her efforts, Spain received the UW-Stout Distinguished Service Athletic Award.

Spain, who was employed at the university in residence life from 1967–96, served as the Stout faculty representative to the Wisconsin Women’s Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (WWIAC) from 1989–96, but was very involved in the athletic department well before that.

Spain used with the Athletic Committee, was a member of the Hall of Fame Committee, served on several committees to select coaching staff and the athletic director, was a member of the Physical Education and Athletics Task Force,
